The CM said that development projects worth Rs 32,000 crore by the central and state governments for the overall development of Ayodhya are currently underway. When the projects get off the ground in a year, the world will see Ayodhya as the most beautiful city, he added.

The construction work of Shri Ram's grand temple is progressing on a war footing within the stipulated time frame, he said. At Ram Janmabhoomi, the CM met Shri Ram Janmabhoomi Teerth Kshetra Trust general secretary Champat Rai and discussed the progress of the construction of Ram Mandir. As he gathered all information from the Trustees and Engineers involved in the construction of the temple, it was revealed that almost 70% of the construction of Ram temple has already been completed.

The CM said: "Today physical verification and review of various development works of the central and state governments were done in Ayodhya along with Darshan-Pujan."

The CM also gave instructions to speed up the works, maintain the standard quality in the projects and take them forward in a time-bound manner. The CM said that there is a need to conduct work in three shifts along with increasing the manpower, so that even if
