SWISS DEVELOPER Zurich Airport International has selected a four-company consortium to design the passenger terminal for the greenfield Noida airport in Jewar, one of its top officials said on Thursday.

"We conducted a design competition where we invited three international teams to make proposals on how they would design this airport, taking into account efficiency and net-zero emissions, digital airport and other main traits that we want to see," Daniel Bircher, Chairman and

Managing Director, Yamuna International Airport Private Limited (YIAPL) told PTI.

YIAPL is a 100 per cent subsidiary of Zurich Airport International and has been incorporated to develop the Noida airport in Jewar.

"We have chosen the team comprising Nordic, Grimshaw, Haptic and STUP — a team of four companies from Norway, England and India," Bircher said.

"They are already at work. We expect them to conclude the key design activities by next June or July so that we are in a position to contract our construction partner to build the airport," Bircher said.
