

90% work of Purvanchal e-way complete: Satish Mahana

Mahana carried out spot-inspection of the Ayodhya phase and then Sultanpur and Azamgarh phases of the expressway

Hindustan Times

HT Image

Industrial Development minister Satish Mahana has stated that 90% work of the Purvanchal expressway has been completed after conducting an aerial and on-the-spot inspection of the project on Saturday. Awanish Awasthi, CEO, UPEIDA, and Arvind Kumar, additional chief secretary, infrastructure and industrial development, were also present.

Mahana carried out spot-inspection of the Ayodhya phase of the expressway and thereafter, reviewed progress of the work in a meeting with all officials concerned. Thereafter, the minister inspected Sultanpur and Azamgarh phases of the expressway.

The 340-km expressway will start from the state capital and will end in Ghazipur, eastern Uttar Pradesh. Several ROBs are also coming up along this expressway. The expressway will traverse through nine districts of the state, including Lucknow, Barabanki, Faizabad, Ambedkar Nagar, Amethi, Sultanpur, Azamgarh, Mau and Ghazipur.

Besides, the expressway will also connect important cities like Varanasi, Ayodhya, Gorakhpur and Prayagraj through link roads.