It aims to bring uniformity in the planning and policies of the authorities — including public transport, road construction, and traffic connectivity, as well as economic development, investment, and employment opportunities.

The Infrastructure and Industrial Development Commissioner has directed the Noida Authority to create a common policy for the regions under three industrial authorities — Noida, Greater Noida, and Yamuna Authority.

The policy will be based on the concept of regional economic geography, which aims to bring uniformity in the planning and policies of the authorities — including public transport, road construction, and traffic connectivity, as well as economic development, investment, and employment opportunities.
