Varanasi: Tangible heritage is not only of material value, but also defines the history and identity of a nation, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said on Saturday, while virtually addressing the concluding meeting of the G20 Culture group in Varanasi.

He asserted that everyone has the right to access and enjoy their cultural heritage, as he laid emphasis on India's efforts to showcase its democratic heritage through the Prime Minister's museum in Delhi, and its 5000-year-old rich tapestry of history and culture through the proposed 'Yuge Yugeen Bharat' National Museum through traditions, customs and festivals handed down generations.
