Lucknow: Guests arriving for the Ground Breaking ceremony should be welcomed in the tradition of Atithi Devo Bhava, Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath directed the officials on Saturday. The guests should also feel at home during their stay in sync with Lucknow's culture of hospitality, the CM added.

Yogi gave the directives while inspecting the Indra Gandhi Pratishthan — the venue for GBC 4.0 — in Lucknow. About 3,000 guests from India and abroad, including Fortune 500 companies, foreign investors, ambassadors and high commissioners, will attend the meet.

“The CM prioritized gathering pertinent details regarding the logistical arrangements for Prime Minister Narendra Modi, VIP guests and esteemed investors. He meticulously examined the layout of seating arrangements and other essential facilities, ensuring a seamless experience for all attendees. He also inspected the main hall for the event and scrutinized the stage setup to guarantee its impeccable readiness,” an official spokesperson said.

Top officials from Invest UP apprised the CM that an innovative approach has been adopted for the event. “As many as 56 steel shipping containers and German hangars have been used to build the venue. The pavilion is 70 metres long and the 20 metres high structure is being built by over 50 artisans,” they said.

The CM also inspected the exhibition area where a 3D replica of Ram temple will be the centre piece. The exhibition would also showcase models of various defence equipment set for manufacture in the state as a mark of state's commitment to foster development and progress. The CM also enquired about the return gift for the delegates on behalf of the state govt and directed officials to use ODOP products. He also inspected the auditorium where the conclaves on CSR and AI would be held on Tuesday.
