

CM fellowship for aspiring youths to boost tourism

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Lucknow: The state tourism department sought cabinet's approval to launch the chief minister tourism fellowship to encourage aspiring youths to effectively implement the state's larger vision to develop and boost tourism facilities and service.

The Uttar Pradesh govt has pledged to turn UP into a $1 trillion economy and a large part of this goal depends on the state's performance on the tourism front. Numbers indicate that UP was fast emerging as a preferred tourism destination in domestic and international categories.

The fellowship would also allow students, researchers, scholars, teachers and innovators to submit their proposals to the department who would be debuted with the district or divisional officers to undertake their work.

The best practices would be awarded. The state planning department has already run a CM fellowship programme in different verticals such as urban development, MSME and industry.
