

UP's prog has changed global perception: CS

Lucknow: Speaking at the Confederation of Indian Industry (CII)'s annual session 2025 held here on Tuesday, chief secretary of UP Manoj Kumar Singh said that UP underwent a remarkable transformation over the past seven-eight years, emerging as a revenue-surplus state with a thriving industrial ecosystem.

"This progress significantly changed the global perception of UP as a prime investment destination. The monumental success of the Maha Kumbh, which witnessed an overwhelming influx of a large number of visitors every day, further reinforced the state's capacity to host large-scale events seamlessly. The rapid industrial development around Jewar Airport in Noida is commendable, reflecting the state's commitment to infrastructure-led growth. With the announcement of five new expressways in this year's state budget and the introduction of the Uttar Pradesh Bioplastics Policy as a game-changer, the future looks promising," he said.

Chairman of CII north Madhav Singhania said that the state is fast emerging as a global industrial hub, attracting large-scale investments and fostering economic transformation. CII takes immense pride in collaborating with the UP govt to support this journey of becoming a one trillion-dollar economy. Chief of CII UP, Smita Agarwal, vice-chair Dr Upasana Arora were present on the occasion. TNN
