The first initiative under Viksit UP 2047 was a 24-hour special session of the UP Assembly, where Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath presented his govt's plan for systematic development across various sectors. Members of the House also highlighted the changes witnessed in the state since 2017.

On Sept 3, the CM launched a QR code that allows citizens to access the Viksit UP 2047 portal, read about its plans, and share feedback. A team of over 400 intellectuals, including retired bureaucrats, engineers, and professors, has been dispatched across the state to engage with social groups and gather inputs for the vision document.

Several other initiatives undertaken by the UP govt to boost the state's economy and position it as India's growth engine have earned praise from other states. One such initiative, the District Domestic Product (DDP) plan, which maps district-wise GDP to track development and contributions to the state economy, has been widely acknowledged as an important monitoring tool. Delegations from Madhya Pradesh, Assam, and Rajasthan have already visited UP to study this model.

According to a government spokesperson, Maharashtra and Tamil Nadu have also expressed interest in visiting the state for the same purpose.
