Lucknow: A delegation from the Confederation of Indian Industry (CII) met Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath on Saturday to discuss investment opportunities, industrial expansion, and infrastructure development in Uttar Pradesh.

Industry representatives said the state’s improved law and order, stable governance and investor-friendly policies made it an attractive destination for businesses across India. The delegation included CII president Rajeev Mehani, Umashankar Bhartia (chairman and managing director of India Glycols Ltd) and Sunil Mishra.

During the discussions, the industry leaders highlighted that under CM Yogi’s leadership, Uttar Pradesh transformed into a transparent, efficient and reliable business environment.

“Work on the ground is now faster, and projects are progressing in a timely manner,” the delegation said, noting that the implementation of the Decriminalisation Bill further strengthened investor confidence.

Officials said the rapid infrastructure development, including expressways, industrial corridors, airports and logistics hubs, reinforced the state’s industrial ecosystem. Along with dependable electricity and water supply, these measures helped make Uttar Pradesh a preferred choice for new and expanding businesses.

The team also lauded the state’s single-window system and digital processes, which provide over 525 services across 43 departments without physical intervention. An upgraded platform, Invest Mitra 3.0, is set to be launched soon, incorporating AI and chatbot features to make investment approvals even more seamless.

“Uttar Pradesh is emerging as a reliable and stable investment hub. Entrepreneurs across India are now eager to plan new projects and expand operations here,” they said.

The meeting underscores the state govt’s focus on industrial development, investor confidence and strategic growth, as Uttar Pradesh charts its course towards becoming a trillion-dollar economy in the near future.
