Several companies were already investing in India and UP. The CM said he and the team that accompanied him put forth a vision of UP, which witnessed rapid growth in infrastructure, logistics, the service sector and public welfare over the past nine years.

"Today India and UP are being viewed in an extremely positive light at the global level. Some of the companies here have already invested in the Ganga Expressway, which is being developed as the country's longest expressway. There has been a 360-degree positive transformation in investors' perception towards UP," he said.

He added that the UP delegation also visited highly advanced facilities, especially the cargo facilities and MRO (Maintenance, Repair and Overhauling), where they witnessed Singapore's expertise and studied it for developing the soon-to-be operational Noida International Airport at Jewar.

"Currently, many aircraft from India and across the world come to Singapore for their MRO work. Such a facility can be developed in India, especially at Jewar. Investors made serious preparations on this subject and are ready to take forward the possibilities with UP," he said.

The CM said that the delegation also visited Singapore's skilling centre, ITE, and added that UP was following a similar model to improve skilling in every district and to link it with employment through the development of Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel Employment Zones. UP govt would be collaborating with ITE to further its programme.

Yogi appreciated the role played by finance minister Suresh Khanna, industrial development minister Nand Gopal Gupta 'Nandi', and all members of his delegation in engaging with industry experts and govt officials from Singapore to secure meaningful collaborations for the state.

He also expressed gratitude to the Indian High Commissioner and his team, "who played an important role in effectively presenting UP's potential in sectors such as trade, technology, tourism, logistics, infrastructure, data centre, semiconductor, MRO and skilling".

"I am confident that the investment agreements signed and proposals received in Singapore will accelerate UP's progress towards achieving the target of a $1 trillion economy," he said.
