

CM: Lucknow establishing itself as emerging sector in tech, def prodn

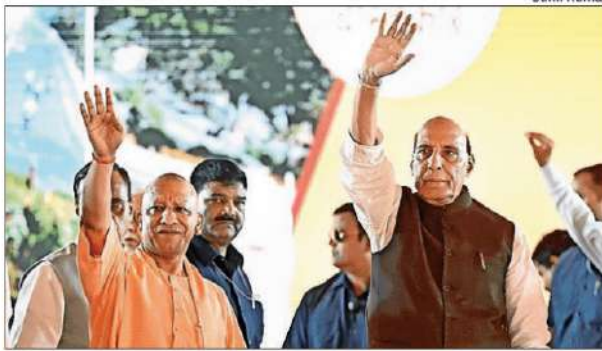

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Sunil Kumar

Lucknow: Inaugurating the Green Corridor project and laying the foundation stone for other development works, chief minister Yogi Adityanath on Friday said that Lucknow has become a symbol of the city's welcome slogan of 'Muskuraiye aap Lucknow mein hain' (Smile, you are in Lucknow).

People coming to the city are impressed by what they see. During the Atal Bihari Vajpayee govt, Rajnath Singh had given Lucknow the gift of Shaheed Path. Later, under Prime Minister Narendra Modi and with the support of Union minister Nitin Gadkari, Kisan Path was constructed, which gave Lucknow a new identity as the outer ring road. Today, these routes are the foundation for the future expansion and development of the city," Yogi said.

"Today, there is a war in Defence minister and Lucknow MP Rajnath Singh with CM Yogi Adityanath during the inauguration of Green Corridor on Friday

the Gulf region and there are economic challenges at the global level. However, due to strong leadership, India is moving rapidly on the path of development," Yogi said.

The CM said that Lucknow was establishing itself as an emerging sector in technology and defence production.

"Due to the efforts of the defence minister, the Brah-Mos missile project was established in Lucknow and youth educated from AKTU, engineering colleges, polytechnics and ITIs are getting employment opportunities in their own state," he said.

Yogi spoke about the plan to develop Lucknow and its adjoining areas as the State Capital Region which would help accelerate the overall development of these areas. He expressed confidence that UP would play significant role in India's development journey.