LUCKNOW: Denmark ambassador to India, Rasmus Abildgaard Kristensen, paid a courtesy visit to chief minister Yogi Adityanath on Friday.

During the meeting, both sides held extensive and positive discussions regarding investment, technological cooperation, and potential partnerships across various sectors in Uttar Pradesh, said a press statement issued by the state government.

The chief minister stated, "UP is today one of the fastest growing economies in the country, offering a transparent policy environment, strong law and order, and modern infrastructure for investors." He invited Danish companies to invest in the state and assured that the government is committed to providing all necessary support, simplified procedures, and a secure investment environment to every investor.

He emphasised that partnerships with Denmark in sectors such as Defense Corridor, renewable energy, waste-to-energy, water management, skill development, infrastructure development, and health-care would be highly beneficial. The ambassador referred to the wide investment opportunities in Uttar Pradesh and expressed particular interest in the Defense Corridor.

He stated that Denmark has rich experience in the defense sector, and Danish companies are keen to invest and collaborate technologically in this domain in UP.

Highlighting opportunities in clean energy collaboration, the ambassador said the UP government is actively promoting solar energy, waste-to-energy, and hydrogen technologies. He indicated potential for active participation of Danish firms in these sectors.

Referring to cooperation in water management, the ambassador informed the CM, "A project related to river rejuvenation and water purification is underway in collaboration with IIT (BHU), and he will soon visit Varanasi in this regard."
