continuous dialogue. Participation of various countries in UPITS also reflects this trust.

The minister said that six nodes of UP Defence Industrial Corridor - Lucknow, Kanpur, Jhansi, Chitrakoot, Aligarh and Agra - have so far received investment proposals worth nearly Rs 40,000 crore, while around 1,142 hectares of land has already been allotted to various industries.

"The government's priority is to create a system where investors do not have to run from one office to another carrying files. Once an investor arrives in the state, his requirements should be understood and solutions provided through coordination with relevant departments," Nandi said.

Merely providing land is not enough. Investors should also get support in policy, connectivity, infrastructure, testing, technical facilities and other permissions, he said.
